Get Involved, Stay Engaged:

Partner Guidebook

Mission

America Saves empowers all, particularly those who are financially vulnerable, to build financial confidence through effective saving, debt reduction, and wealth building strategies.

Vision

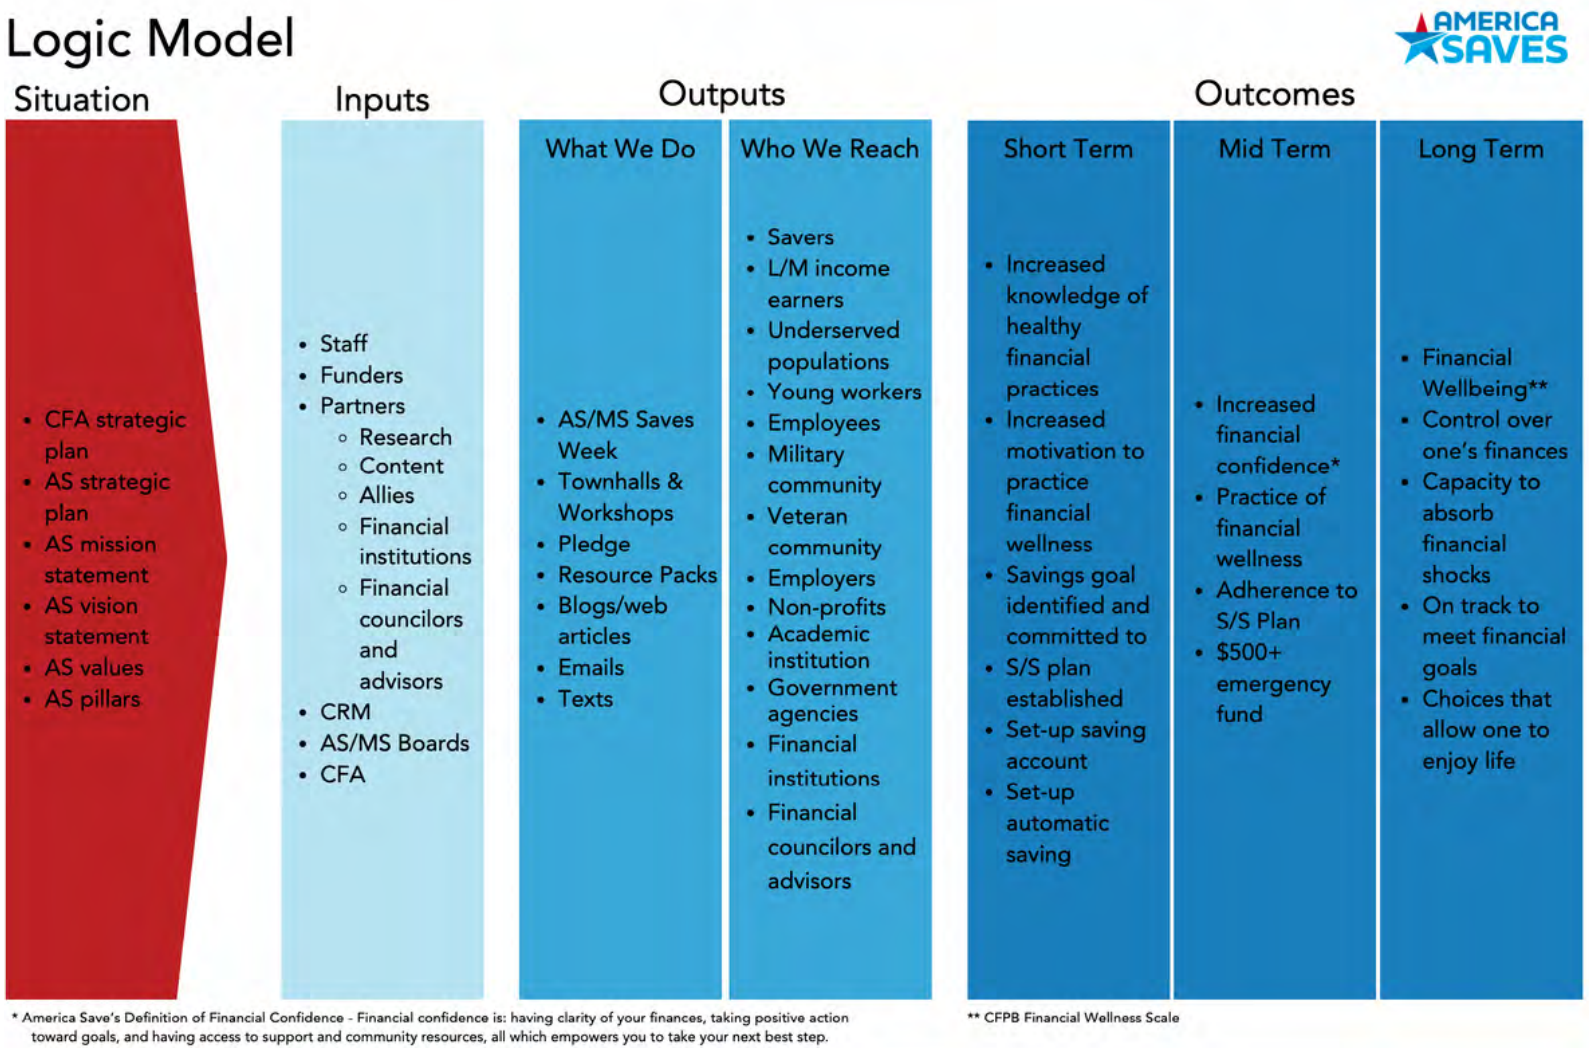

America Saves' vision is for all Americans to have an account in which they save automatically, successfully, and with at least $500 on hand to meet unexpected expenses.

Our Values

America Saves is proud of our strategic messaging that motivates savers to take action to save successfully. Our content, resources, and thought-leadership are grounded in the following values:

- There should be a no shaming and nonjudgmental approach to encouraging people to save.
- When you focus on building financial confidence, there is space for everyone in the saving and personal finance conversation.
- Getting a clear view of your finances is the first step to becoming financially confident.
- Saving automatically is the easiest and most efficient way to save.
- Saving for your past (reducing debt), present (emergency fund), and future (long term savings such as retirement, education, and homeownership) is essential to overall financial wellness.
- Saving is a habit, not a destination. Starting with small habits can make a big difference and we celebrate both small wins and big milestones.
- Financial literacy alone is not enough to increase financial stability.
- There are internal and external factors that shape a person's relationship with money. To shift financial behaviors and beliefs, you must address those factors including mental and emotional health, culture, personal values, and systemic barriers.
- There are many ways to save, and we focus on giving people the information and education they need to "Think Like A Saver." We know an informed saver is an empowered saver, and an empowered saver can make the best financial decisions for themselves.
- Saving is not political.

Logic Model

Notes:

Our Approach

What is financial confidence?

Financial confidence is defined as a feeling achieved when Savers:

- have clarity of their finances
- are taking positive action toward goals, and
- have access to support and community resources that help fill in the gaps for basic needs and staying on track toward goals.

When all three of these elements are present, Savers are empowered to take their next best step, no matter their financial situation.

Personal Values-Led Saving™

We define a “Personal-Values Led Savings™” approach as developing a financial plan centered on what matters most to the individual. A Personal Values Led Saving™ approach considers:

- a person's culture, background, and lived experience
- the individual’s health, including mental and emotional wellness
- systemic barriers
- other factors that have contributed to their financial habits

We validate and uphold their story, ensuring they are seen, heard, and understood. Then give practical, realistic strategies and tips that empower and build confidence.

America Saves Week in April 2024

America Saves Week 2024's theme is "Saving for What Matters Most." It will take place April 8-12, 2024, to align with National Financial Literacy Month/National Financial Capability Month.

Visit americasavesweek.org to sign up and learn more about the campaign.

Strong Foundations Sustainable Homeownership Program

A new ambitious project that contributes toward closing the homeownership gap, racial wealth, and gender wealth gaps. The wrap-around program will create 50,000 first time homeowners through mentorship, personal finance strategies, and tools that will develop homebuyers who both attain and retain their homes.

The program has a particular interest in supporting individuals from marginalized and underserved communities — mainly lower-to-moderate income earners, people of color, women, and veterans. Program participants will implement positive savings strategies, take actions to save for short, mid, and long-term financial goals, and realize homeownership.

America Saves will partner with financial institutions, lenders, and other professionals in the homeownership and personal finance ecosystems to provide support, incentives, and products that are the best fit for Strong Foundations' clients.

For more information, email Kia McCallister-Young at kyoung@consumerfed.org.

Women + Money Forum

Coming in March 2023, a forum solely focused on women and money, addressing topics that range from income inequality, financial independence and abuse, credit, debt, investing and retiring with dignity.

What's Returning:

MILITARY SAVES

Encouraging the military community to save money, reduce debt and build wealth.

Military Saves is an initiative of the America Saves program dedicated to promoting saving and financial confidence among military personnel and their families.

Our Mission & Vision

At Military Saves our mission is to empower the military community by instilling a culture of saving, reducing debt, and building wealth. Through our unique approach to personal finance we know we can help service members achieve our vision — which is for all service members and their families to have an account in which they save automatically, successfully, and with at least $500 on hand to meet unexpected expenses

We believe that by instilling a culture of saving, we can help military members and their families achieve financial stability and confidence.

The Military Saves program is specifically designed for service members and their families, recognizing and addressing the unique challenges they face within the military community. These challenges include frequent PCS moves, income fluctuations, and deployments.

Military Saves is proud of our shame-free approach to personal finance that acknowledges people's lived experiences and their emotional well-being, which deeply resonates with Savers and helps move them to action.

Values That Drive Our Program

At Military Saves, we uphold several core values that guide our program's initiatives and activities:

Financial Confidence: Military Saves defines financial confidence as having clarity of your finances, taking positive action toward goals, and having access to support and community resources, all of which empower you to take your next best step. We recognize that everyone's financial journey is unique and that personal circumstances can significantly impact financial situations. Through educational resources, tools, tailored support, workshops, and annual campaigns like Military Saves Week, we work to build financial confidence within the military community.

Financial Inclusion: We believe strongly that in order for financial education to resonate and inspire people to take action, everyone deserves to be seen, heard, and included. Our messaging is grounded in financial inclusion and accessibility — ensuring that individuals from all backgrounds have access to financial resources and opportunities.

Personal Values-Led Saving: We recognize that each individual has unique financial goals and priorities. Our program encourages savers to align their saving strategies with their personal values, allowing them to achieve financial success on their own terms, with simple and effective strategies that work.

Activation and Engagement: We are dedicated to providing actionable strategies and resources that inspire and engage military members and their families to actively participate in the saving journey.

What's New:

Military Saves at Work

A new toolkit with resources for financial professionals who work with service members on military installations. The content and resources within this toolkit are custom designed to support PFMs and PFCs and will be available during Military Saves Week 2024.

What's Returning:

Military Saves Week - 2024

Encourages service members and veterans to pause and do a financial check-in. Takes place April 15-19, 2024 under the theme "Saving for What Matters Most." VETERAN SAVES

A Financially Confident You Begins Here.

Veteran Saves is an initiative of the America Saves Program, dedicated to promoting saving and financial confidence among transitioning service members, veterans and caregivers.

Our Mission + Vision

At Veteran Saves, our mission is to empower the entire veteran community by instilling a culture of saving, reducing debt, and building wealth. Through our unique approach to personal finance we know we can help veterans achieve our vision — which is for all veterans to have a dedicated savings account where they save automatically and successfully, maintaining a minimum of $500 in savings to meet unexpected expenses.

Veteran Saves is a program created out of necessity and recognizes the unique challenges and untapped opportunities for transitioning service members and veterans, whether they are separated or retired from service. Veteran Saves is proud of our shame-free approach to personal finance that acknowledges people's lived experiences and their emotional well-being, which deeply resonates with Savers and helps move them to action.

The Veteran Saves program is reshaping the narrative of personal finance and encouraging Personal Values-Led Saving.

Values That Drive Our Program

At Veteran Saves, we uphold several core values that guide our program's initiatives and activities:
Financial Confidence: Veteran Saves defines financial confidence as having clarity of your finances, taking positive action toward goals, and having access to support and community resources, all of which empower you to take your next best step. Personal Values-Led Saving: We recognize that each individual has unique financial goals and priorities. Our program encourages savers to align their savings strategies with their personal values, allowing them to define and achieve financial success on their own terms, with simple and effective strategies that work.

Activation and Engagement: We are dedicated to providing actionable strategies and resources that inspire and engage the veteran community to participate in the saving journey.

VETERAN SAVES

Who We Serve

Veteran Saves engages and supports both organizations and individuals . Our program model involves working closely with mission aligned partner organizations to amplify, distribute, and collaborate on resources, tools, and events. For savers, we support veterans, transitioning service members, their family members, and caregivers.

Oue mission is to empower the entire veteran community by instilling a culture of saving, reducing debt, and building wealth.

How We Support Savers

We create and curate content, resources, and tools that directly cater to the needs of our Veteran Savers. Through our website, social media channels, and educational events, we guide them on their saving journey, from setting goals to reducing debt, developing effective saving habits, and building their net worth. Our Veteran Saves website provides access to a wealth of information and tools. Savers can access saving strategies, blog posts, financial resources, downloads, collaborative partner content, and take our Veteran Saves pledge.

How We Support Organizations

Veteran Saves creates year round and ready-to-implement financial wellness resources, content, and communications for organizations to incorporate into their existing messaging and engagement with their audiences. For our network partners, we offer support through a range of resources. These include themed partner resource packets that offer ready-to-use materials (social media content, blog posts, infographics, videos, pre-written text messages, etc.). These toolkits empower partners to effectively promote financial stability within the veteran community. Additionally, partners benefit from our monthly updates, research, workshops, webinars, collaboration opportunities, and resource sharing.

Ways To Get Involved

Here's how to leverage Veteran Saves into your existing programs.

- Distribute resources and content in our partner resource packets to your community of transitioning service members, veterans, and caregivers.
- Encourage service members to take the Veteran Saves Pledge or host your own Veteran Saves Pledge on your website.
- Collaborate to host workshops or webinars for your community on financial education topics.
- Participate in Military Saves Week 2024, which will be held April 15 – 19, 2024.
- Become a Veteran Saves Local Campaign, implementing our content within your existing program. You'll receive exclusive opportunities, content, and technical assistance directly from the Veteran Saves staff.
- Become a Content Collaboration Partner and develop valuable financial education content.

Partnership Opportunities

We offer several partnership opportunities, including collaboration, becoming a local campaign, and programmatic support and underwriting. Through April 2024 Veteran Saves is actively offering and accepting Founding Partner opportunities and sponsorships for our town halls, Veterans Day program, themed resource toolkits, and workshops.

Email kspell@consumerfed.org to discuss collaboration and support opportunities or request the Veteran Saves Sponsorship & Underwriting Deck.

What's New:

Veteran Saves is our newest initiative and a joint venture with AMBA and DCUC. Veteran Saves is dedicated to empowering Veterans with practical resources and strategies on crucial personal finance topics such as debt, financial stress, housing, and obtaining disability benefits.

Veteran Focused Workshops

Our first Veteran Saves workshop will be held on during Military Saves Week 2024 focused on building, rebuilding, and increasing your credit score. Registration will be released with the Military Saves Week 2024 toolkit

Veteran Local Campaigns

If you are a veteran service organization, consider becoming a Veteran Saves Local Campaign, where you will get support, tech, and additional access to exclusive resources to implement into your programming.

AMERICA SAVES FOR YOUNG WORKERS

Promotes workplace savings for young adults

America Saves for Young Workers (ASYW) empowers young adults and first-time workers to understand how to save effectively in real-time. By combining real-time positive saving habits with foundational financial education, young people gain financial literacy, financial confidence, and put their learnings into practice.

Overview

With a vision that all young workers build financial confidence and establish lifelong saving habits as a result of learning saving behaviors from their first or early earning experience, the program also encourages Savers to embrace a values-led approach to saving, meaning that they'll learn to understand their unique financial experience and prioritize saving for the things that matter most to them.

Our Commitment

ASYW is committed to the financial empowerment and well-being of young workers. We teach young people the necessary mechanics of successful saving, give them the building blocks to financial success, and provide opportunities for them to implement what they've learned to save toward a goal of their choosing. Through building financial knowledge and healthy financial behaviors, young workers will have the foundation for financial confidence and increased financial stability.

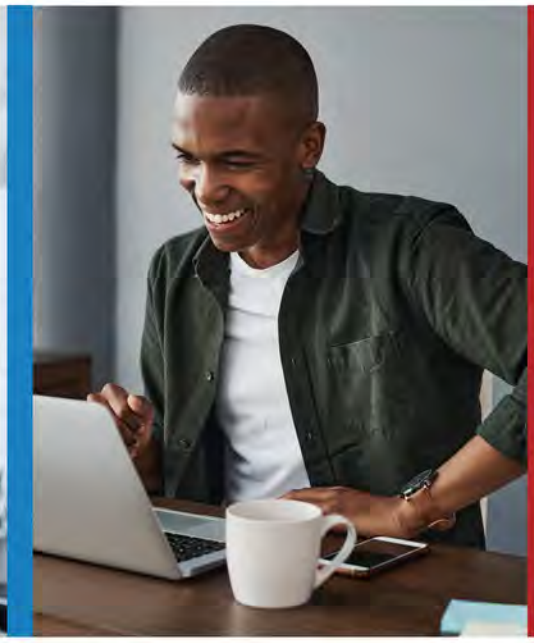

America Saves for Young Workers is a youth-informed program, designed in collaboration with our National Youth Advisory Council. As an organization, we are deeply committed and passionate about changing the narrative, voice, and impact of the youth financial capability sector, ensuring that what we create that reaches and resonates with young people, that we provide them with step-by-step building blocks to successful saving, and give practical pieces of information based on where they are in their journey.

How It Works

1. Employers sign up to become an America Saves for Young Workers partner. The America Saves for Young Workers Team then guides you through implementing the program, giving support and assistance, and providing targeted resources for your youth employees.

2. Young workers are introduced to the program via your unique webpage provided by America Saves. Once your young workers access your unique link and take the America Saves for Young Workers Pledge, the program is on "autopilot."

3. Our tools and resources support youth employees with a relatable and simple approach to saving for short-term and long-term goals with strategies like splitting your direct deposit and saving automatically.

Who We Serve

We are happy to partner with any business or organization that offers direct deposit and employs young people ages 14 - 24. This includes:

- Employers that hire young adults, both traditionally and seasonally
- Summer Youth Employment Programs
- Organizations that hire paid interns

Measuring Impact Using Pledge Analytics & Reporting Survey

America Saves will have goal-focused analytics from pledges and survey results from both young workers and participating employers to measure experience. This data is used to create a yearly report for the program as a whole, as well as impact reports for each program at the end of the year or season, depending upon the partnering organization's timeline.

Getting Involved

Sign up to become a partner employer at www.americasavesforyoungworkers.org! Once you've taken the easy steps of setting up the program for your organization, America Saves for Young Workers does the rest. It's a turnkey youth financial capability solution.

AMERICA SAVES FOR YOUNG WORKERS

What's New:

America Saves for Young Workers empowers young adults and first-time workers to understand how to save effectively in real time. By combining real-time positive saving habits with foundational financial education, young people gain financial literacy, financial confidence, and put their learnings into practice. Traditionally incorporated with Summer Youth Employment programs, America Saves For Young Workers can be implemented with any employer, educational institution, or community organization that employs young people aged 14-24.

Young Savers

In 2024, America Saves for Young Workers will transition to Young Savers, a youth financial education program serving young people ages 14-24. America Saves for Young Workers will remain a part of the Young Savers program, while the content, resources, and tools available through the program will now expand beyond serving youth employers and young workers.

Youth Financial Confidence & Capability Pilot Program

This first-of-its-kind pilot program will expand the well-established America Saves for Young Workers program that instills positive financial behaviors through active, real-time saving habits and incorporates Financial Fitness' online financial education to influence behavior, increase financial education access and inclusion, and build financial confidence in diverse high school age youth in Wisconsin.

What's New:

CARE x America Saves

As we introduce Young Savers, a significant aspect of this program will involve incorporating CARE. CARE is a national non-profit organization dedicated to equipping students and young adults with the knowledge required to make healthy financial choices. CARE relies on the contributions of volunteers, consisting of experts in bankruptcy, financial services, and business. This network of proficient volunteers operates through local chapters spanning the entire country, offering complimentary educational seminars at high schools, colleges, and youth organizations within our communities. Thanks to our extensive network of local campaigns nationwide, we are well-positioned to lend support to these CARE chapters across America, further amplifying the positive impact America Saves has on young individuals.

AMERICA SAVES at WORK

What's New:

Financial Wellness Action and Education Roundtable

- On November 9, employers, researchers, service providers, and thought leaders will collaborate to review research and insights as well as identify programmatic components, employee engagement strategies and impact measurement methods that will result in the final design of the inaugural At Work Financial Wellness Toolkit which will be made available to employers at no cost.
- Some of the organizations that will be participating include the two event sponsors NEFE and Bipartisan Policy Center along with DCIIA, SIFMA Foundation, Sunny Day Fund, Commonwealth and more.

ASAW Service Options

- Technical assistance for identifying appropriate resources, implementation and communication strategies. The number of choices that exist and the number of different approaches can be overwhelming, so we can help guide employers in a direction that is most suitable for their goals and objectives.
- Customizable employee surveys to learn about the specific financial needs of a workforce. It is important to understand the unique life circumstances of employees so we work with employers to design and conduct surveys to understand what benefits and services would be most useful and impactful.
- Content rich employee workshops on topics such Establishing a Spending and Savings Plan, How to Pay Down Debt and more. Using our unique no shaming and Personal Values Led savings approaches, ASAW can provide learning opportunities in a format that resonates with your people.
- America Saves at Work Toolkits: a collection of resources around themes or topics that employers can distribute to their employees.

Employee Financial Wellness Toolkit

This toolkit which will be made available to employers at no cost will provide resources to:

- Increase employers' awareness of the importance of talking about both saving for retirement and saving for emergencies/unexpected expenses.
- Equip employers with a menu of resources that they can use to communicate the importance of these topics to their employees and help motivate employees to save for immediate needs and long term needs.

What's Returning:

America Saves at Work Network

Organizations who join the Network:

- Gain access to a growing library of financial content designed specifically for use in workplace savings programs
- Receive periodic newsletters
- Receive invitations to virtual and in-person forums to discuss, create and implement strategies that help reduce barriers to workplace savings programs.

Foundation $1000 Research Project

Foundation $1000 is a novel research partnership between America Saves, MIT's Jameel Poverty Action Lab, and Chime examining the effects of payment structure on financial health and savings behavior. Researchers from the University of Chicago, Booth School of Business and Harvard Business School will lead a randomized control trail in which participants, recruited from Chime users, will receive $1000 in either a single lump sum or over multiple instalments. By collecting periodic surveys, utilizing transaction-level financial data provided by Chime, and linking subjects' credit report data, we will construct a comprehensive picture of participants' financial and non-financial wellbeing, and provide novel evidence relevant for our understanding of household consumption-savings decisions, employers designing benefits to promote savings, and policymakers seeking to understand how to optimally disburse benefits.
